Weekly Status Report 1

This week we set up the framework for our project. We met with our advisor, Prof. Lotfi, to discuss regular meeting times and the scope of the project. During the meeting, Lotfi also walked us through the basics of the existing codebase and gave us the contact information of one of the members who worked on it previously. Our task for next week is to research some existing DevOps frameworks so that we may better understand the goal of the project. With that, we are also expected to look over the previous team's work, including the existing codebase, docs, and scope.
